Field School Program

Introduction

Imagine a place of rich biodiversity where the classroom is alive and the seasonal cycles provide limitless opportunities for integrative learning in nature. This is Cheakamus Centre. Surrounded by 420 acres of ecological reserve, Cheakamus Centre is conveniently located 50 minutes north of Vancouver, in the beautiful setting of Paradise Valley, Squamish BC.

At Field School, students are immersed in educational experiences inspired by nature. Hands-on learning takes place in a vast network of trails, ancient forests, salmon streams, ponds, our teaching hatchery and working farm. All senses become engaged when students interact with the natural world. At Cheakamus Centre, nature is both the teacher and the classroom.

Curriculum

Field School is aligned with the new BC curriculum and supports the Ministry of Education learning objectives and core competencies. Cheakamus Centre's instructors and BC certified teachers follow a set of guiding principles that connect students to themes of Place, Inquiry, Community, First Peoples' Perspectives and Personal Connections. Our range of program options allow visiting school groups to customize their program to create a memorable outdoor learning experience for students and staff alike.

Our facilities provide a warm and welcoming ambience that puts students at ease. Groups stay in heated rustic cabins equipped with two shared bathrooms and bunk style beds. Two cabins are wheelchair accessible, with separate bedrooms for students requiring additional support. Cabins are grouped together to foster a sense of community and for ease of supervision. The campus offers several multi-use gathering spaces. It features the sustainably designed Environmental Learning Centre and trail-side shelters, classrooms, labs, auditorium and covered amphitheater for rainy day activities, and our outdoor fire sites ideal for campfires and music.

Cheakamus Centre is renowned for its food! Chef Wade and the kitchen team prepare tasty, seasonal meals and snacks that keep students happy and energized. Our kitchen caters to most dietary needs and restrictions. We champion the local food movement and incorporate fresh seasonal produce from our on-site garden. We believe in building positive experiences with healthy food for our guests.
