nature is in session

One Day Blended Program

Experience all Cheakamus Centre has to offer in this one day program that explores both the natural beauty and cultural significance of the Paradise Valley. Over the course of a single day, students will have opportunities to learn about critical environmental habitat and ecology while experiencing traditional First Nations culture and practices.

A well-rounded, seasonally inspired experience, the One Day Blended program offers students the opportunity to learn about the life cycle of Coho, Pink and Chum salmon in our working hatchery and explore our extensive trail networks to understand forest processes, animal habitat and the human role in influencing them.

In small groups, students will also learn about life in a traditional Coast Salish Bighouse and the different roles of family groups from hunting and fishing to weaving and plant gathering. First Nations Elders will lead workshops in traditional arts and fun, hands-on activities.
